Supreme Court Knocked by Sam Gompers

"But into Politics," Order
in Resolution

ST. LOUIS, June 9.—Protest of organized labor, as voiced here today at preliminaries for the annual convention next week of the American Federation of Labor, centered against the Supreme Court, the Congress and State legislatures in general.

Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, in addressing a club of business men, interpreted the Supreme Court decision in the celebrated Coronado coal case as a negation of the right to strike, and declared that organized labor would appeal to Congress for new legislation setting aside the decision.

In criticizing the Supreme Court Mr. Gompers said that he expected to be taken strictly to account for his utterances, adding that "I do not run away from a fight."

"A PRETTY MESS," he continued, "when an American citizen can no longer discuss and criticize the decision of the courts. Anyone, if he feels so disposed, can criticize even the President of the United States, or the United States Senate or the Congress. Pray, of what flesh are

Buzzing Around Mash Piles,
Honey Now is Highly Flavored

ST. LOUIS, June 9.—Bee bootleggers who manufacture alcohol-flavored honey are the latest violators of the Volstead Act in Clatsop county, according to County Agricultural Agent McMinde.

He says that, on account of the large number of stills which have been operated in the county, quantities of fermented mash have been dumped in isolated spots. The bees in their search for material for honey making discovered the mash piles and, as a result, the contents of some of the hives are highly flavored.

The members of the Supreme Court that they are above criticism because they are the President of the United States.

Delegates to the meeting of the federal trades department of the federation assembled Congress and State legislatures as enemies of union labor and declared for active participation in the fall campaign in an effort to elect its friends regardless of their politics.

In his speech Mr. Gompers said the Coronado decision made international unions inflicting strikes liable for damages. He asserted that this meant that unions must stand constant litigation or go out of business.

"If you compel men and women, regardless of conditions," he continued, "to work against their will, you have re-established slavery. Some people are impressed now is the time to take advantage of the working people, reduce wages and break up their organizations and under the 'open shop' weaken or destroy the unions."

MORGAN READY TO COME BACK

France Will Not Let Herin Escape Debt

Lowering of Reparations is Blow at America

Allied Debts Must be Kept to the Forefront

PARIS, June 9.—J. P. Morgan has his trunks half packed to return to America immediately, and the prospect of an international loan to Germany hangs by a thread. If France, who holds 52 per cent of the German reparations, will not allow the bankers a free hand in arranging what will amount to a new reparations settlement, he thinks it will be futile to make these new arrangements for Great Britain, Belgium and Italy, who hold only 40 per cent.

Decides the Allied war needs, America is being inextricably involved in the prospective reduction of the reparations, and his position, which is unofficial, will become embarrassing. The French government frankly speaks through the Temps, the official organ, last night, as follows:

PRESSURE ON AMERICA
"There are some questions so closely related that one cannot be brought up without affecting the other. This direct relationship exists between the problem of reparations and the problem of the American claims. If you may let us reduce the German payments, a stronger echo will reply and let the United States renounce its claim upon the Allies, a maneuver which originally meant pressure against France, which will finish by bringing pressure against America.

"Louis Dubois, the French reparations delegate, was wise in recording his vote yesterday to remark that the commission had no power to discuss the Allied debt."

to America. Consequently the commission must not envisage reduction of German payments which would imply as a necessary counter-action the reduction of the Allied debts to America. The French government is convinced that all must make a maximum effort, with honesty and perseverance, to pay all they owe. So France insists on being paid by

"We fear the British government does not profess these principles. We fear that it seeks to constitute thanks to the international committee of bankers, a sort of consortium or syndicate of European debtors, who will demand the cancellation of their debts to America. If such is the case Mr. Morgan would do well to reflect maturely."

before he associates himself with the conclusion of the bankers. For he is likely to throw an involuntary boomerang, and the shaft he would throw, instead of touching only the French claims upon Germany, would strike a death blow to the claims of America on the Axis.

ISOLATE FRANCE?

In other words France declares the reduction of the reparations a strategic maneuver to rid itself of debts to the United States and also to make Germany the best customer of England, and also, incidentally, isolate France.

France has parried this alleged British thrust by jumping to the aid of America and saying that the thrust will pierce America as well as France. The uncertainty of Mr. Morgan and the other bankers caused by the French discomfiture was indicated by last night's communication, which says:

"The Reparations Commission will consider its position resulting from the reply to the Reparations Commission."

again Friday for this purpose." The communiqué of Wednesday night was identical.

Sir Robert Kindersley, the British banker, and Dr. Vissering, the Dutch banker, are urging the committee to embark on a study of Germany's capacity to pay, but Mr. Morgan refuses until the situation is clearer.

ROTARIANS' CONVENTION ADJOURNED

Delegates Will Observe Hospitality Day Today and Visit Studios

The thirteenth annual convention of Rotary International closed yesterday afternoon in Philharmonic Auditorium. But the convention today will observe hospitality day for the 4000 and more Rotarians. This is the first time in Rotary convention history that an entire day has been so set aside.

BOARD TO MEET

August 2 was selected as the date for the next meeting of the board. This meeting will be held in Chicago. The date set for this meeting is about a month earlier than the customary date for the first post-convention board meeting. This gives ample time, it is said, for the selection of committees and duties for these committees prior to the meeting of the international council on August 1 in Chicago.

TROPHIES PRESENTED

The Rotary trophies were presented just before adjournment. The delegation from Malden, Mass., marched onto the stage, cheered and received the cup presented by the Houston (Tex.) club for the best men's attendance in the year. ## CHEF ANSWERS MANY LETTERS

Wyman Tells Best Ways for Fixing Summer Menus

Veal Cutlet Casserole One of Popular Dishes

Fishing Season Calls Forth Trout-Cooking Secret

Like a recipe for fig oatmeal cookies. Beat to a cream three-quarters of a cup of shortening and add one cup of sugar, beat light; add three well beaten eggs, yolks, one teaspoon of soda and half a cup of sour milk. Stir two cups of flour with a quarter of a teaspoon of salt and one teaspoon of cinnamon and add to the mixture with two cups of rolled oats and one and half cups of chopped figs. Beat the mixture, drop from a spoon on a buttered baking sheet and bake in a moderate oven.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING
M.E.K. City, wants a recipe for boiled salad dressing made with butter, four and milk, about one pint. Blend in a double boiler two tablespoons of butter and two tablespoons of flour; when well blended stir in two cups of milk and cook and stir eight minutes. Beat the yolks of two eggs with four tablespoons of lemon juice and four tablespoons of orange juice and stir slowly into the mixture. Cook until thick and smooth and season with a pinch of salt, a little nutmeg. Cool and keep in the box.

BIRTHDAY PARTY MENU
O.H.N. City, has two children who have a birthday the same week and wants a menu for their party. They are fourteen and sixteen years old. Would suggest that she serve: Chicken salad in cheese sauce, wheat bread and butter sandwiches, strawberry ice cream, marshmallow sauce, birthday cake, bonbons, and fruit punch.

CHOUX PASTRY
Place in a saucepan one cup of water and half a cup of butter and bring to a boil, when the butter is melted add, all at once, one cup of sifted flour and stir until it forms a ball and leaves the sides of the pan. Turn into a bowl, cool slightly, add one egg and beat five minutes, add another egg and beat five minutes, repeat this until four eggs are used. Drop mixture onto an oiled shallow pan in oblong shapes. Bake in a moderate oven fifty minutes. Cool, cut off the tops and fill with a good chicken salad mixture. This paste is used for cream puff and éclair cases.

BIRTHDAY CAKE
Beat to a cream half a cup of butter and one and one-quarter cups of brown sugar, and beat in the well-beaten yolks of two eggs and beat well. Stir two cups of flour with three-quarters of a cup of milk, beat well. Mix half a cup of chopped seeded raisins with five tablespoons of chopped fig meats, half a cup of chopped walnut meats, two tablespoons of chopped candied orange peel and four tablespoons of flour. Add to the cake mixture with one teaspoon of orange extract and one teaspoon of vanilla extract. Beat well and add the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs. Line a round cake tin with buttered paper, pour in the cake mixture and bake in a medium oven fifty minutes. Ice with white icing and place around the top the required number of pink candles. Would suggest that she have two cakes, one for each child.

COOKING TROUT
S.M.T. City, is going trout fishing and wants to know what to take with him to cook the trout with that he expects to catch, also wants to know what sauce to have for the fish.

Take a good-sized French saute pan, a can of good olive oil, a package of corn meal, salt, pepper and a few lemons. To cook the trout, heat a generous amount of olive oil in the saute pan until it is smoking hot, be careful not to burn. Clean the trout and cover with corn meal seasoned with salt and pepper. Place the trout in the hot olive oil and cook on both sides.

The only sauce he will need will be furnished by his appetite after a day's fishing, and if liked, a few drops of lemon juice. Some old-time trout fishers claim that bacon grease is the only fat to use to fry trout, but I think that the bacon fat spoils the fine flavor of fresh-caught trout.

ASPIO JELLY
H. I. Y. Santa Barbara, would like to know how to make aspio jelly to mold meat and fish in. Place in a saucepan four cups of clear stock made from beef, chicken or veal, and add two tablespoons each of chopped celery, onion, carrot, green pepper and egg shells. Mix three tablespoons of gelatin soaked in cup of cold water with the strained juice of one lemon, the slightly beaten whites and shells of three eggs and a seasoning of salt and pepper. Add to the stock and place on the fire, bring slowly to a boil, stirring constantly. When mixture boils, let boil for three minutes without stirring. Set where it will not boil for fifteen minutes. Strain through a napkin, cool and mold.

CHICKEN STEW
B.A.W. Lakewood, asks for directions for preparing a Creole chicken stew. Clean and disjoint a fat chicken. Cook three sliced onions in four tablespoons of butter until soft, not brown. Add the chicken and one cup of chopped celery and four cups of strained, cooked tomatoes. Let simmer for one hour. Season with salt, chopped parsley, and a purse of pimientos. Spread over the top two cups of corn, fresh or canned. Dish on a hot platter and place around mound of rice.

VEAL CUTLET, CASSEROLE
J.L.O. Pasadena, wants the method of preparing and serving veal cutlets and veal kidneys in a casserole. Heat in a shallow earthenware casserole three tablespoons of butter, place in the veal cutlet and brown well on both sides. Cook half a dozen small onions in butter and add with one cup of potato balls or cubes. Cover and cook until done in a medium oven. Serve in the casserole. Season with salt, paprika and chopped parsley. For the veal kidney in a casserole trim the kidney and leave a slight layer of fat all around it, season it and place in a cocotte or small earthenware casserole in which have been melted two tablespoons of butter, add

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

"Dear Dr. Peters: My faith in you has been much increased since I have seen the result of your reduction campaign. Now it looks reasonable that if you can reduce weight, you can increase it also. I have a sister-in-law who has reduced six pounds in the last few days by following instructions, and I want to pick it up as fast as I can. I am five feet nine, weight 150 pounds, am a married man and have a married wife. Would like to weigh 175, and live 200 years. Can you help me?—W. H. R."

You evidently have a nice wife to get such a lot of joy out of life and I certainly will help you realize your ambition. If you have missed the articles that have been running out in moderation of the diet, send me a 4-cent stamped envelope and I will forward the articles.

Mrs. G. E. F. wants to know if it will be all right to alternate the fruit juice diet with the liquid diet, and if butter-milk made with the tablets will be all right. Yes. You can take any liquids you like when you are on the liquid diet so long as they do not average more than 600 calories during the day. If you make the buttermilk from whole milk you will have to count the value of the whole milk—that is, twenty calories to the ounce—and if you make it of the skim milk it will count about half that much. You speak of gas on your stomach. Most gas on the stomach has been proved to be air swallowed. Eat more deliberately, chew your food well, and do not be afraid of the combination of acids and starch if you eat in moderation of the diet. The gastric juice is much more acid than any lemon juice or any other acid you might take in a salad.

The reason a lot of individuals are underweight is because they have been afraid to eat for fear of some harmful chemical combination in the food in the intestinal tract. Most of that talk is irrational. Eat what you like in moderation and don't worry about it.

"Dear Doctor: I want to reduce my lower legs from the knee down.—A. B. C." Kicking and walking and dancing two tablespoons of butter, Cook slowly for thirty minutes, turning often. Heat one tablespoon of butter with one tablespoon of ketchup, one tablespoon of orange juice and a teaspoon of table sauce. Pour over the cooked kidney and serve in the casserole.

"Dear Doctor: According to your statement that we need fifteen to twenty calories per pound of normal weight per day, I need 1815 C. Does that mean that I should consume 367 1/2 C. in food and the other half in exercise?"

Dear Girl, you are confused. In the first place, in counting calories you cannot be so accurate. We can only compute approximately, but that is all we have to do to get results. In the second place, you need in food, not the fifteen to twenty calories of food per pound of normal weight per day is the normal weight you need for your body. But if you are reducing, you should cut down 500 to 1000 C. from this, and thus lose one-eighth to one-quarter pound a day. It is not wise to lose more than two pounds a week after the first week.

"Dear Doctor: Here is an embarrassing moment. A milk wagon had turned a corner at a too rapid speed and turned over, causing the spilling of several gallons of milk. A crowd had collected and in the front row stood a large, fat woman. Directly behind her was a small man endeavoring to see what had happened. Getting a view of the damage, he remarked in a voice of surprise and awe: 'What a waste!' The fat woman turned and indignantly replied: 'Mind your own business.' 'Thanks! We have had some good internal massage with our e. m.'s, haven't we. Send in some more!'

Spotless Pantry Shelves
The cleanest and most attractive covering for your pantry shelf is plain white oilcloth. The shelves may then be wiped off each week and there is so little wear and tear in places of this sort that the oilcloth will last indefinitely.

Magazines of the Household
Make it a rule in your house that if a person's initials are on the outside cover of a magazine, the book is to be kept for him or her and not thrown out. So often we read things we would like to clip, but do not want to spoil the magazine for the others in the house, and this would insure its being saved.

Told in Passing
Tomato rubbed into the hands will remove fruit stains. Never put anything with a strong odor in a lunch basket. A coarse grater is the most effective utensil for scaling a fish. Add a little celery salt to potato soup to give it a delicious flavor. Mercury can be removed from gold jewelry by a soft-soap eraser. Ingredients for salad dressings should always be chilled before mixing.

If you use wood in your stove, have the woodbox elevated three or four inches from the floor and mounted on casters. It will be a great relief from constant stooping.

A number of Times Radio Club members have asked regarding the proper size of wire to be used in the primaries and secondaries of receiving transformers. While there is no set size to use, it is generally conceded that No. 20, 22 or 24 double cotton covered copper wire is best adapted for winding primaries, while No. 26 and 28 double cotton covered copper wire are both suitable for secondaries.

MURDERER IS SHOT IN SALT LAKE CITY

SALT LAKE CITY, June 9.—Nick Obizzo was executed at the Utah State prison at 6:08 o'clock this morning for the murder of Marco Lora, a miner, who was stabbed to death and robbed of $1200 in a lonely spot on the outskirts of the city Aug. 3, 1919. Obizzo appealed to Gov. Mabey for clemency, but the board of pardons, after considering the case, refused to intercede. The board had previously declined to commute the death sentence.

Steve Maclich, who perpetrated the murder with Obizzo, was executed at the prison January 26. Both men chose execution by shooting instead of hanging.

WHITE and UNMARRIED

Chapter XII

THE REWARD

Five minutes later their stolid chauffeur, his face betraying no interest whatever in them or in the battle whose sounds had for a long time come to his ears, was proving the worth of his engine as they swept back to the Port de Bismarville.

Such as Kane desired to be present at the reunion, he left them near the Hotel de Ville, from which point he ordered Victor to return with Andre to her attic and the two little sisters, promising to see them upon the morrow.

"Good-bye, or rather, adieu, little sweetheart!" he whispered, taking Andre into his arms and knowing that she was his own forever and aye.

She was troubled over his defection and he had difficulty in preventing her from leaving the crazy taxi-auto and coming with him.

When they were at last out of sight he proceeded to the Prefecture and nonchalantly related his story.

There followed certain interesting formalities which cast a light upon national psychology.

First of all, Kane's story was investigated, and his casualties fetched in to morgue and hospital. The delight felt by the police, who had long yearned for the heart's blood of both Chicago and the equally dangerous but subtler Maréchal, was admirably concealed.

The American was made to feel how very gravely he had offended the majesty of France by taking her prerogatives into his unofficial if efficient hands. He yawned and smoked many cigarettes.

A telegram was sent to New York for his record.

Word was returned that William Kane was a gentleman of leisure and independent means, against whom the police of his native land had nothing whatever. The message was signed by no less a personage than Deputy Assistant Commissioner Augustus Ryan.

There followed, in its own dignified, court proceedings at which Kane was represented by an able and very expensive gentleman known as Maître Vignol.

Ultimately, Paris preserved justice and the proprieties in her own inimitable way. Kane was fined 1000 francs for carrying dangerous weapons without permission and for striking a citizen in the face with his bare hand, and was warned solemnly to keep the peace.

Afterward, at the Boulevard du Palais, the general headquarters of police, he was kissed rapturously on both cheeks by the prefect, the subprefect and the Chief of Police; and, observing suspicious symptoms of similar intentions on the part of several minor officials, he made a clean getaway with all his old-time skill and nerve.

You may, in sailing down the Seine in a "vapor boat" some fine afternoon, have observed just below the bridge of Clugny the flag of flags waving proudly over one of the prettiest little villas to be seen thereabout.

It moved by the spectacle of Old Glory caressed by the hospitable breeze, you were to disembark and crunch up the neatly gravelled and tap at the big brass eagle which forms the villa's door knocker. A small boy with more shiny buttons than it would at first appear there was cloth enough to smother them to would answer your summons.

It would be safe to address him as Victor.

Were you to present your card, as an American visitor you would be welcomed most heartily by the master of the house and his pretty and vivacious wife, and tea would be urged upon you, with all that tea implies and not a little that it strictly decries.

And if you were to wonder by what name to address the charming and rosy-cheeked maid who would wait in the tea wagon, you would have two equally probable guesses. One would be Louise; the other, Henriette.

Trail of Bogus Checks Leads to San Quentin

An astounding trail of bogus checks marks the path of Aaron Fiber to San Quentin prison, according to information presented to Judge Shenk yesterday by Probation Officer Carl May. Fiber had filed an application for probation, but Mr. May's report was against granting the appeal.

The report stated that after the defendant had issued numerous checks for which it is said he had no funds in the bank, he issued one for $118.78 to the Santa Fe system for ticket to Cleveland, O. When it was found he did not have money in the bank to meet it, he was arrested at Winslow, Ariz., and brought here for trial.

The prosecution officer said that the defendant had issued checks totaling $1242.61, in addition to a draft for $622.81. The application for probation was denied, and the defendant was sentenced to San Quentin prison for from one to four years.

END OF CHINA'S STRIFE IS NEAR

Speaker Predicts Compromise by Rival Leaders

South America Now Friendly, Says Rotarian

Pasadena Expects Paddock to Race Next Year

(LOCAL CORRESPONDENT)

PASADENA, June 9.—There is a strong probability that the three principal Chinese leaders, Dr. Sun Yat Sen, Gen. Wu and Gen. Chang, will compose their differences and get together for the unification and upbuilding of China, Dr. Fong Y. Sec, Shanghai delegate to the Rotary convention, declared today in an address at the Hotel Maryland here.

Charles J. Ewald of Buenos Aires, another speaker, asserted that distrust and suspicion of the United States had largely died away in South America and a better feeling, born of the World War, had taken its place. He predicted a closer union between the United States and the southern republics. Mr. Ewald is also a Rotarian. The speakers were at a luncheon given by the Y.M.C.A.

PADDOCK TO RUN
The decision of the Olympic Committee at Paris today to send the 1932 games to Los Angeles will probably mean business for Pasadena's new stadium, now building in Brookside Park. Athletic authorities predicted that many of the preliminary events and perhaps some of the finals would be held in Pasadena.

The Pasadena speed marvel, Charles W. Paddock, is expected to take part in the events. Paddock was out of town today, but his father said the son had every intention of competing in it. When bids for the new Pasadena central five stadium were opened today, the city authorities did some scratching of heads. It had been estimated that about $15,000 to $20,000 would be enough for the building, but the lowest offer for general construction today was $24,500, and from there the bids ranged to $74,978.

A bond issue of $117,000 for new stadiums and a new alarm system was approved recently by the voters, but the alarm system is expected to cost $15,000 or more. There is a new stadium in Lamanda, $40,000 would be enough for the building, but the lowest offer for general construction today was $24,500, and from there the bids ranged to $74,978.

The lowest bidder on general construction was H. O. Clark, on heating, Richard H. Tyler, on plumbing, South Pasadena Plumbing Company, and on painting, Pasadena Paint and Decorating Company.

PROPOSES MUNICIPAL PIER AT BEACH CITY

VENICE BOARD OF TRUSTEES WILL BE ASKED TO CONSIDER PLAN

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent (EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)
VENICE, June 9.—Within the next few weeks the Venice Board of Trustees will be asked to consider a plan for converting Sunday Pier, now virtually abandoned into a municipal pier, similar to the one at Santa Monica. The plan has been under discussion for some time.

Further interest in the enterprise was aroused today in a statement given out by Herbert Hertel, manager of the Venice branch of the Bank of Santa Monica. Hertel is in favor of the project and argues that the plan can be paid before the Board of Trustees in comprehensive form immediately.

Under Mr. Hertel's plan the pier would be used entirely for municipal purposes. No concessions would be allowed with the possible exception of tackle renting for fishing purposes. The site of the present dance hall would be used for an auditorium. Mr. Hertel also suggests that a public library could be accommodated on the pier, and that it be extended far enough to connect at the outer end of the present Windward-avenue pier.

Mr. Hertel said the plan could be put through at comparatively small cost, but that a bond issue would be necessary. In view of the benefits to be derived, he said, he did not believe the bond issue would meet strenuous objections.

RICH WIFE SAYS REST WAS DENIED

Wilshire Matron Charges Husband Nagged Her and Was Jealous and Cruel

Complete Lines of Flags for Flag Day, June 14th (Fourth Floor)

Henry Harper, who married Maud S. Harper, a wealthy resident of the Wilshire district, and was sued for divorce on the ground of extreme cruelty, must answer her charges under a ruling of Judge Crail's yesterday. The court overruled Mr. Harper's demurrer to her complaint.

Mrs. Harper, who has grown children by a former husband, complains in her action that on the date they separated, four months after the marriage, Mr. Harper, in a fit of temper, seized her by the wrists and shoved her against the wall. He was extremely jealous and abusive, she charges, falsely accused her, nagged her in the presence of her children, keeping it up at night so that her rest was disturbed; did not support her, but daily asked her for large sums of money.

Mrs. Harper says that her husband forced her to give his mother, who lived with them in the home she owned, at 742 South Wilton Place, $500 for a course of lessons in the business in which Mr. Harper was associated. He also demanded, she asserts, that her two children be sent to boarding schools. She refused to comply with his demands. He demanded that she dispose of her home and use the proceeds to send his mother to England and set him up in business. He also asked her to solicit in social circles for pupils for a course of physical training. All of these purported acts caused her humiliation, she says. Willis S. Mitchell is her counsel. The Harpers were married January 1, last, and separated May 15.

possible to effect his release today or tomorrow. Walter Mosher and other Klansmen gathered around Baker and urged him to stick with the ship.

While Judge Houser was reducing the bail of the California Klansmen, another judge in Texas was instructing a jury to return a verdict of guilty and remove from office a sheriff who took an oath necessary for admission to the Ku Klux Klan, according to Associated Press dispatches to The Times.

The case on trial was that against Tom Garner, Sheriff of Jefferson county, Texas, and was being heard before Circuit Court Judge Robert G. Street in Beaumont. Judge Street instructed the jury to find Sheriff Garner guilty of official misconduct and held that the fact that Garner had become a member of the Klan was in contempt of the oath he took as sheriff. Counsel for Garner protested that there was nothing in the Ku Klux Klan oath in conflict with the duties of sheriff, but the court declared the oath of the Klan was in effect to "deceive the ignorant and unvary."

BAKER IN COURT
Former Klansman Baker was called before Judge Houser after the noon recess. He was weak and had to be supported by Under Sheriff Blaculus. The indictment was read to Baker by Dep. Dist. Atty. Burke. Attorney D'Orr then asked the court grant some time to plan.

As Baker left the courtroom, leaning helplessly on the undersheriff and Mrs. Baker, he passed through the group of indicted Klansmen in the hall, awaiting the signing of the bonds for their release. Baker remained for a few minutes and then engaged in a private conversation with Mr. D'Orr. The attorney had just returned from the court where he had been for a few minutes and then engaged in a private conversation with Mr. D'Orr.

The signing of the bonds and their approval by the court occupied only a few minutes, and was completed before the representatives of the District Attorney's office arrived, it was learned.

KLANSMEN IN COURT
The thirty-two asserted members of the "Invisible Empire," charged by Paul Blaculus, D'Orr, and A. L. Abrahams, his law partner, filed into the courtroom at 10 a.m., and were given standing orders by the court. The indictment was then read by Dep. Dist. Atty. Randall, assigned to Judge Houser's court.

Chief Dep. Dist. Atty. Doran and Dep. Atty. Turney, who directed the grand jury inquiry, were present.

Mr. D'Orr informed Judge Houser that two of the indicted Klansmen, Warren and William Hall, of Inglewood, could not arrive in Los Angeles in time for trial and that the laws of the automobile broke down near Bakersfield. He guaranteed their appearance.

He also stated that several of his clients had $500 in cash with them and said he understood the custom in the court was to accept one-half the bond sum in cash.

RAIL IS FIXED
"It's not the custom in this court," Judge Houser declared, but at the same time ordered that one-half of those present be set at $500, cash or bond.

The applied to all the defendants with the exception of Price, Coburn, the Hall brothers and Baker.

WIRE FROM PRICE
Mr. Doran informed the court that he had received a telegram from Price, reading as follows: "Am writing to you from Los Angeles. Will stop in Houston one or two days. Arrive Los Angeles early part next week. Will report your office immediately on arrival."

The telegram was dated at Monterey, Ala.

Under Sheriff Blaculus and Klansman Baker arrived, with two Deputy Sheriffs bringing up in the rear, just as the proceedings were over. Baker was ordered to reappear at
